REMEDIES

Members of the California Association of Nurserymen are often asked for remedies to yellowing foliage on camellias and azaleas. And most of them wish all questions were so easily answered. Eight times out of ten the problem lies in a lack of iron, which is either caused by the lack of it in the soil, or a non-acid soil-which makes the iron unavailable. Try an acid food first and if that doesn't do the trick, add one of the iron compounds.

by reservation only, so if you plan to attend contact the Director, Bob Christie.
